DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Applicant's election without traverse of group II in the reply filed on 11/25/05 is acknowledged.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1, 4, and 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Gonzalez et al. in view of the prior art (figure 1). With regards to claim 1 Gonzalez et al. disclose placing a triangular (column 10 line 67) shaped layer of polysilicon (22) on a layer of insulating material and a layer of titanium silicide (24) over the polysilicon. However Gonzalez fails to disclose the heating of the titanium and polysilicon in order to form c49 phase of titanium, whereas the prior art discloses the formation of c49 phase of titanium. With regards to claim 4, the prior art disclose forming the titanium silicide at 620 degrees. With regards to claim 5, it is a standard practice to remove unconverted metal after forming silicide. Therefore it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to combine Gonzalez and the prior art because forming the c49 phase is well known in the art and the c49 phase would have more uniform resistance than an aggregate of polysilicon and titanium silicide.

Claim 3 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Gonzalez et al. in view of the prior art (figure 1). Gonzalez and the prior art disclose the claimed invention except for the layer of titanium is 500 angstroms. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to form a layer a titanium that is 500 angstroms thick, since it has been held the discovering an optimum value of a result effective variable involves only routine skill in the art. In re Boesch 617 F.2d 272, 205 USPQ 215(CCPA 1980). Furthermore the thickness would readily react with the underlying polysilicon.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 2, 6-10 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: the prior art of record neither teaches nor suggests coupling a small end of said triangularly shaped layer of polysilicon to an input contact; coupling a large end of said polysilicon to an output contact; triangularly shaped layer of coupling an input metal connector to said input contact; and coupling an output metal connector to said output contact (claim 2) or applying a current to said triangularly shaped layer of C49 type TiSi₂ in said triangularly shaped layer of polysilicon; and converting a portion of said triangularly shaped layer of C49 type TiSi₂ to C54 type TiSi₂ to lower a resistance of said triangularly shaped layer of C49 type TiSi₂ (claims 6-10).
